| Shot Type | Wide → slow push in. Frame starts on black, reveals glowing screen. No camera shake. |

|----------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Character / Subject  | No human. Abstract: data stream, screens, cursors.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Action               | Blue-white data streams fall like thin rain. A large screen glows from darkness — numbers move on it automatically, a graph fluctuates without a hand, a cursor clicks with no one clicking. Notification icons blink and vanish without a sender. Everything moves; nothing is controlled. |
| VO Text              | —                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| UI Element on Screen | Screens showing moving numbers, auto-clicking cursor, notification icons (no readable text, no identifiable app). Abstract only.                                                                                                                                                            |
| Mood / Lighting      | Cold. Impersonal. Dissonant. Palette: #0A0F1E background, #4A9EFF neon accents, #E8EDF5 dim white. No warm light sources.                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Music Note           | Single low electronic drone ~80Hz, pulsing every 2 sec. No melody. Subtly unsettling.                                                                                                                                                                                                       |

Segment 1 — Live Actor: Pembuka

| Duration             | 20 sec                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| Format               | Live shoot                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Shot Type            | Medium shot. Slight low angle. Rack focus from background to face in first second. Actor does not move frame position until after VO ends.                                                                                      |
| Character / Subject  | Live actor. Business casual. Clean warm background (real workspace texture — wood or brushed concrete).                                                                                                                         |
| Action               | Actor enters frame in contrast to cold open — immediately warm. First 3 sec: holds gaze at camera, no smile yet. Smile arrives organically at second sentence. Hands move naturally. Final 3 sec: one small nod, then hard cut. |
| VO Text              | “Ada momen ketika semuanya terasa... terlalu rumit. [0.5 sec pause] Terlalu banyak pintu. Terlalu banyak aturan yang tidak kamu buat. [0.5 sec pause] Tapi bagaimana kalau tidak harus begitu?”                                 |
| UI Element on Screen | None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Mood / Lighting      | Warm contrast to S0. Tungsten 3200K. Trustworthy, calm, not corporate.                                                                                                                                                          |
| Music Note           | S0 drone fades as actor begins speaking. Single acoustic guitar note enters at ~5 sec — one note, soft, like a door opening.                                                                                                    |

Segment 2 — AI Scene: Karakter 1 — Ibu Rumah Tangga (Anchor)

| Shot Type            | Shot 1 (0–12 sec): Medium shot, slightly low. Shot 2 (12–25 sec): Close-up on face, ambient glow from phone. Shot 3 (25–40 sec): Slow pull back to wide shot.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Character / Subject  | Indonesian woman, 45–55 years old. Anchor character. Warm kitchen environment.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Action               | Shot 1: Woman packaging homemade food products in a lived-in Indonesian kitchen. Natural, focused. Shot 2: Phone vibrates. She picks it up. Screen shows “Rp 285.000 masuk” + green checkmark — screen glow lights her face from below. Expression: brief surprise, then a real, private smile. Shot 3: She sets the phone down, returns to packaging. Motion is lighter now. Camera pulls back — kitchen feels full of possibility. |
| VO Text              | “Jutaan orang punya sesuatu yang berharga untuk ditawarkan. [0.5 sec] Mereka hanya butuh tempat yang mau bermain jujur. [0.3 sec] Di mana kerja keras mereka — adalah milik mereka.”                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| UI Element on Screen | Phone screen: “Rp 285.000 masuk” + single green checkmark. No menu, no navbar. Ambient glow only — UI not held in frame long.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Mood / Lighting      | Golden afternoon. Warm — ochre, wood brown, soft yellow. Intimate. | Action              | 0–8 sec: 7 panels appear simultaneously — each showing a 2–3 sec loop of the character's key action from their scene. All present at once. 8–15 sec: Panels slowly move toward center — like magnets. Merge into single frame. Warm light radiates from center at the moment of full merge. Simple, not over-animated. |

| Action               | Actor delivers closing lines with complete calm. Not dramatic. Not a sales pitch. The tone is: “I just showed you something real, and you already know what it means.” After final line, actor pauses — genuine moment of stillness. Small quiet smile. Fade to black at 18–20 sec. At sec 15, text appears on screen (on-screen super): “Tens of millions of economic lives. One ecosystem. One set of rules for everyone.” Text stays through fade to black. |
| VO Text              | “Satu aturan main. Untuk semua. [0.5 sec] Puluhan juta kehidupan ekonomi. [0.3 sec] Satu ekosistem. [0.7 sec — longest pause in video] Dan kamu bisa ada di tengahnya.”                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| UI Element on Screen | On-screen super (text overlay) from sec 15: “Tens of millions of economic lives. One ecosystem. One set of rules for everyone.” Same type treatment as S16 but on warm background.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Mood / Lighting      | Warmest frame of the entire video. Resolve. Belonging.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Music Note           | Warm chord resolve at tagline appearance. Single major chord, sustained. Fades with the video. Fade to black: 2 seconds.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
